

Contents

Acknowledgements	7
Introduction: Walking a Tightrope	9
1 Historical Perspective	23
I The Salic Law	23
II The Powerful Female Trinity	27
III François Hédelin, Abbé d'Aubignac	36
2 The Tragic Trio: La Pucelle, Cyminde and Zénobie	47
I The Heroic Woman	47
II The Weaker Sex	55
III Woman as Sex Symbol	62
IV The Prerogatives of War and Government	69
3 Dangling Mistresses: Dorise, Alminde, Clitie, Uranie and Urselide	81
I Autobiography or Fantasy?	85
II Would-Be Casanova	93
III All in Good Fun	99
IV Gay Instruments	105
4 Women of Virtue: Célimène and Amelonde	109
I Célimène	109
I.1 Communication	114
I.2 Entertainment	125
II Amelonde	135
II.1 The Secret Adventures of the Noble Amelonde	136
II.2 A Not-So-Happy Life	144
5 The Coquettes	147
I Coquetry	150
II The Kingdom of Coquetry	152
6 Allegorical Women: Macarise and her Enemies	165
I Allegory, Allegory, All is Allegory	169
II The Kingdom of Happiness	171

7	Women Who Behave Badly: the heroines of Corneille's Sophonisbe, Sertorius and Œdipe	179
	I The Showdown of the Century	179
	II Immodest Women	185
	III The Salic Law Revisited	193
	Conclusion: The Hitchcock Presence	195
	Bibliography.....	205
	I Works by Abbé d'Aubignac	205
	II Primary Texts	207
	III Studies	209
	Index	219